

Opportunities and Obstacles to Reducing the Environmental Footprint of Natural Gas Development in the Uintah Basin

Public Workshop, 10:30-6:00
USU-Vernal/UBATC Building
320 N. 2000 W. (Aggie Blvd) Vernal, UT
Thursday, October 14, 2010

Agenda includes Presentations & Panel Discussions on:

- Trends and environmental issues related to natural gas development
- Examples of environmental innovations being used in the Uintah Basin
- Examples of innovation & tools from outside the Uintah Basin
- Regulations and environmental policies: friend or foe? Panel discussion with local, state, tribal, and federal government leaders

Targeted Audience:

- Regional and local energy industry and consultants
- State, Federal, and Tribal government staff
- University researchers and students
- Local community leaders and residents

Workshop registration is FREE and includes lunch and break snacks.

Space is limited. To pre-register, send your name, organizational affiliation, and email to: EFDworkshop@gmail.com.

Registration and detailed meeting information available at

<http://www.oilandgasbmps.org/workshops/vernal2010/>

NOTE: the workshop will follow the regular quarterly meeting of Uintah Basin Oil and Gas Collaborative Working Group – set to meet from 8:30-10:00 at the same location.

(BEERC)

